

Yann Mahé promoted new Managing director of MyScienceWork

Paris, October 8th, 2019. MyScienceWork is happy to announce that Yann Mahé has been promoted to Managing Director of MyScienceWork. He took office in July 2019.

“I am very happy to be a part of the MyScienceWork adventure, proud of what we’ve achieved in the past 3 years. I feel ready and excited to take up the challenges that come with a tech and AI market in full expansion. They are opportunities that we need to seize.”

Our services and solutions for scientific, technical and medical data valorisation are expanding, and so is our team. I am thrilled to be part of this development.”

At 39 years old, Yann Mahé has acquired a strong expertise in the data science field throughout his career. He has held several managing and strategic positions in renowned primary players of the scholarly publishing industry. He first joined MyScienceWork in 2016 as Business Development Manager before becoming Innovation & Business Development Director. While holding this position, he initiated the creation of Polaris OS, a new generation of data warehouse, and the development of Sirius, a data science tool aiming to guide the private and public stakeholders in their attempts to promote their research and development data.

He’s also been co-animating the “Open science” workgroup since January 2019 within the GFII - Professional Association, a grouping of primary public and private stakeholders of digital information industry, of which he’s been a member for the past ten years.

About MyScienceWork

MyScienceWork offers expert solutions in data treatment for research institutions, science publishers, and private R&D businesses. MyScienceWork’s database includes more than 90 million science publications and 12 million patents.

MyScienceWork hosts a community of professional scientists and science enthusiasts across the world who use the network in order to discover (and upload) scientific publications in all fields of research.

Presse contact:
Sarah AMRANI
Digital Communication &
Public Relations Manager

Mobile : + 33 (0)6 89 01 64 24
sarah.amrani@mysciencework.com
www.mysciencework.com

MyScienceWork